BIOGRAPHY

Edward Hodges was born on July 20, 1796, in Bristol, England. After the death of his father in 1811, he assumed responsibility for the family's stationary business, but found himself increasingly drawn towards music. In May 1825, he entered Sydney Sussex College of Cambridge University, and on July 3, 1825, he was awarded the Mus. Doc. degree. For ten years, he attempted to secure an organist position at an English cathedral. In 1838, he left England for a position at St. James' Cathedral in Toronto. In January 1839, he moved to New York, and became the organist and choirmaster of Trinity Church, a position he held until 1858. Hodges was the first American church musician to establish an English cathedral music program in the United States. Afterwards, he returned to Bristol, where he died on September 1, 1867.
